

REVIEW EDITOR

Review translations easily

The Review Editor enables you to optimise the internal review and approval of translations and more effectively engage your employees throughout the world in localisation projects.

Why is reviewing translations important?

- Local stakeholders become better integrated into the localisation process
- The translated content gains stronger internal acceptance
- Style and tone can be localised with more precise consideration of company requirements
- Translation processes can be optimised continuously

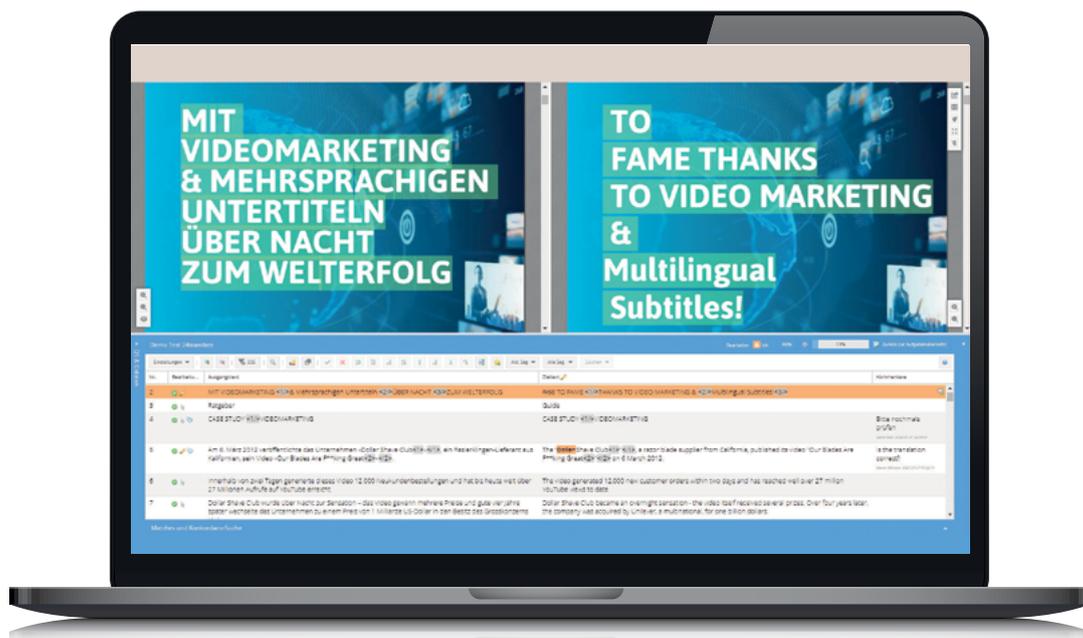

It makes sense to use the Review Editor ...

- if several people and/or organisations are involved in the validation and approval of translations
- if the company's current internal processes for reviewing translations are inefficient
- if no glossary and sentence database or no source text are currently provided for reviewing translations
- for large translation projects in particular, where many lines need to be reviewed in a short time in a specific project set-up
- if the document layout for different languages also needs to be reviewed

Using the Review Editor

The Review Editor can be used at any time and in several languages via common browsers as a software-as-a-service (SaaS) solution – without the installation of additional programs. When commissioning the translation or before, you decide who is granted secure access to your review process and can participate in reviewing the translation.

Review Editor offers the following features:

- Easy overview of review orders
- Comparison of source text and translation
- Integrated glossary and sentence database
- Direct alteration and/or approval of the translation
- Live preview of the document layout
- Simultaneous work, competing assignments or sequential work
- Comment function
- Tracking changes to the translation
- Integrated spelling and grammar check
- Updating the sentence database
